The oceans and what they say about our future on earth

Where the Kuroshio and Oyashio currents meet, forming a Shiome.

The theme of Aquamarine Fukushima is known as Shiome(the meeting of two currents), which occurs off the coast of Fukushima Prefecture.

We are an aquarium that recreates the nature and environment around us, allowing visitors to enjoy a number of aquamarine experiences.

Estimated Viewing Length
1.5-3 hours

The Sea of the Current Rip Shiome

View the strong swimming fish of the Kuroshio current and the diverse creatures of the Oyashio current.

The triangular tunnel represents where the two currents meet.

Along the Shores of Fukushima

You can see creatures from the upper river basin to the coast of Fukushima Prefecture. Here, we incorporate natural light and also exhibit plants.

Marine Mammals and Seabirds in the Northern Pacific

Marine Mammals such as the Spotted Seal and the Steller Sea Lion along with Seabirds are available for viewing. Don't miss the incredible feeding time experience!

Oyashio Ice Box

Introducing small yet uniquely colorful creatures, a scene resembling a treasure chest.

Evolution of Life in the Seas

Watch the world's first footage of young Coelacanths, while viewing images of living fossils still inhabiting the oceans today.

JANOME Beach

It is the world's largest touch pool with a size of 4,500 square meters that recreates the oceanic environment of coral, tidal flats and beaches.
